Accreditation threatened

State slaps county schools with deficiency warnings

All four schools in the Hancock County School System have been cited with deficiencies by the State Department of Education's Commission on School Accreditation.

Hancock Superintendent of Schools Terry Randolph said Wednesday positive steps must be taken to remedy the deficiencies or the accreditation of the schools will be in jeopardy.

School administrators had been criticized during the recent school bond election for a series of letters sent to parents warning accreditation of county schools would be threatened unless the bond issue passed.

Randolph said the deficiency notices received by the various schools Wednesday support the validity of these pre-election warnings.

"The end result of this matter could be a takeover of the county's schools by the State Department of Education," Randolph explained.

Two Hancock voters, represented by a Pass Christian attorney, this week inspected the bond issue ballots from last week's election, a move cited by School Board Attorney Joseph Gex as a prelude to a court challenge of the vote considered thus far to be in favor of the $3.4 million bond issue.

The superintendent said passage of the bond issue will be considered by the State Board of Education as "a positive step in the right direction," and should prevent the probationary status of the county's schools from deteriorating into a loss of accreditation.

Texts of the Hancock school administration letter mailed to voters prior to election and the letters from the State Board of Education received by the county's four principals Wednesday are reproduced on Page B1 of today's Echo.

Bay AFT prexy breaks policy 18

By RICH ADAMS

The president of Bay St. Louis' chapter of the American Federation of Teachers has claimed success in "breaking the wall of silence" imposed by the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board's Policy 18.

Local AFT President Andrews Wilkinson, after attempting to gain recognition from the board for over a year, was granted time on the agenda Monday night to express the Bay St. Louis AFT's protests against allocation of public funds to defray the expenses of school personnel attending annual state conventions of teacher organizations.

He thanked the board for allowing him to speak on behalf of the AFT contrary to the board's Policy 18, which bans organized groups from being recognized by the board.

"I am not here to thank you for allowing me to address the board," Wilkinson told the board.

"This comment is offered not in the spirit of rudeness, but in the context that it should never be necessary for a citizen of this country to have to thank his government for allowing him to exercise his rights as a citizen," he continued.

"We are glad to appear before you...doubly glad for what we hope this appearance represents. We hope it represents a permanent setting aside of that policy which states the board refuses to deal with organized groups," Wilkinson said.

"We hope my appearance before you as a spokesman for an organized group represents a triumph of reason over prejudice. We hope this event signals the removal forevermore of an insurmountable obstacle to effective communication between you and the community of citizens which you represent," he continued.

"We hope most of all that this is the beginning of a meaningful dialogue between the Board of Trustees and teachers of this system," he added.

Wilkinson feels the board's cooperation in letting him speak is the initial sign of a revision of Policy 18.

"We are proud that our school board has shown the flexibility to change policy which has been shown not to work," he said in his statement.

Wilkinson was protesting the board's allocation of approximately $620 approved at the April 10, 1978 meeting in which the board decided to reimburse six administrators, members of the Bay St. Louis Association of Educators, for expenses involved in attending the state convention of the Association of Educators in Jackson in March of this year.

"My purpose tonight is to offer to the board the views of the Bay St. Louis Federation of Teachers concerning this practice and submit for your consideration the recommendations of our organization concerning future policy in this area," Wilkinson said.

He said the board's authorization of taxpayer's money of paying personal expenses for members attending the convention "amounts to, de facto, recognition of that organization by the board."

He added that such payment to organization while refusing payment and recognition to another "is in itself a clear-cut act of discrimination."

He said the AFT "feels the solution to the problem lies not in authorizing more public money to pay the expenses of more people. To the contrary, we recommend that no public money be authorized for such purposes."

Wilkinson quoted the late Senator Everett Dirksen, who said, "Take a billion dollars here and a billion dollars there, and pretty soon you're talking real money."

"In the very same context," Wilkinson said, "we submit when the school district takes $620 here (to pay personal expenses at the convention), $1900 there (for a sign in front of the high school), and $2100 somewhere else (to have a policy manual written for the board)." POLICY 18-Page 3A

Fire threat persists, local officials warn

By RICH ADAMS

City and county officials in Hancock County are urging residents not to burn any trash or leaves due to the dry conditions created by lack of rain.

Bay St. Louis and Waveland fire departments and the Hancock County fire watch tower of the Mississippi Forestry Commission are no longer issuing permits for unconfined burning due to the rash of brush and woods fires in the county.

Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner called the increased number of fires in the county an "epidemic."

"It is really dry...we have only had one rain in 60 days. I saw a section in Shoreline Park where fire ate up a whole block of timber," Ladner commented.

The sheriff is asking people in Hancock County, especially in outlying areas, to refrain from burning in the open except when absolutely necessary.

"If you find it necessary to burn, clear the area around the fire so the flames won't spread," Sheriff Ladner advised.

Hancock County Towerman Wanda Stenklyst said she expects the Mississippi Forestry Commission to reinstate a ban on trash and leaf burning.

Ms. Stenklyst said a week-long ban prohibiting burning was lifted earlier this month, but she expects the forestry commission to restore burning limitations in the near future.

"I spotted one little fire today in north Hancock County, and by the time I called the fire station five miles from the site of the fire, better than six acres were burning," Ms. Stenklyst said.

FBI investigation possible in schools equipment theft

By RICH ADAMS

The North Bay Elementary Parent-Teacher Organization pressured the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board into notifying federal law enforcement agencies of a missing audio-visual component owned by the system.

In a presentation to the board, PTO member Judy McCormick brought to the board's attention a $2,000 video tape machine missing from North Bay Elementary for two weeks.

Ms. McCormick pointed out no police report has yet been filed with law enforcement officers, and demanded a federal investigation on behalf of the PTO.

"...a complete component set valued at over $2,000 and purchased with federal funds is missing," Ms. McCormick said.

"After a thorough check, we can find no record of a police report. You and I should feel obligated to show this thief or thieves that they cannot steal from our children and get away with it," she said.

The PTO raised concern earlier in the school year over a $2,000 theft of school supplies from the North Bay cafeteria. The supplies were reportedly taken in early August and the police report on the theft was allegedly misplaced.

"In view of these foregoing examples of thefts in an amount of up to $8,000 in our school system...some of which was federal money...we urgently demand the Board of Trustees initiate a request for a federal investigation into this matter," Ms. McCormick told the board.

"As taxpayers, we are sick and tired of this continuous, frivolous, and in our opinion total disregard for our monies, and for our children's education to which we should dedicate all our effort," she concluded.

North Bay Principal Billy Sills told the board he thought the video tape machine was just misplaced and he would search the school property again and try to find the machine.

Board Member Maurice Singleton suggested Sills look for the component, and if it could not be located in "the next few days," to report the theft to the police or the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Ms. McCormick suggested the board comply with suggestions set down in an auditor's management letter dated November 5, 1977.

In the cover letter from Moore and Powell Certified Public Accountants, a suggestion was made to maintain a detailed property ledger on all equipment owned by the school.

According to the letter, the ledger could be used as a control over disposition of these assets by sale, theft, or other means.

Also at Monday's meeting, Ms. McCormick discussed asphalt for the playground at North Bay.

She called the present condition of the playground a "dustbowl," asking for asphalt on basketball courts and under swing sets.

At an earlier meeting of the school board, Board Member Robert Hamilton said the area would be blacktopped even if he "had to get on his hands and knees to do it himself."

Ms. McCormick said she had discussed the matter of asphalt with Bay St. Louis Schools Superintendent J. D. McCullough.

603 residents petition for light, speed limit

By RICH ADAMS

Some 500 citizens of Kiln and other communities bordering Hwy. 603 have signed a petition calling for a half-mile extension in either direction of the 40-miles-per-hour speed zone along Hwy. 603 through Kiln.

In addition, the petition seeks traffic signals and warning signs at the intersection of Hwy. 603 and the Kiln-DeLisle Road.

The petition was presented to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors by Beat Four Supervisor Sam Periclaro Tuesday in a special meeting of the board.

The county residents requested the action due to the increased number of deaths on the highway this year.

"That is a dangerous intersection," said Board President A. A. (Dolph) Keller.

"The intersection is a very dangerous place. I don't know how many more fatalities must occur before the Mississippi Highway Department approves four-laning of the road," Keller added.

Beat Three Supervisor Oscar Peterson recommended the board apply to the highway department proposing four-laning Hwy. 603 from Hwy. 43 to US-90 on July 3.

A proposal was drawn up and sent to the highway department for recommendations, but no word has come from that department yet, Peterson said.

"We really have to get going (with the four-lane proposal)," Peterson said before Tuesday's meeting.

"I can't think of any place in the state which needs the four lanes more than Hwy. 603. I will ask for a resolution to push the state highway department for action. They need a reminder," he added.

Periclaro received a letter from Robert W. Moseley of the highway department in response to the petition.

"This is to advise you we are in receipt of your letter dated May 2, 1978."

concerning your request for the highway department to extend the 40 miles-per-hour speed zone on Mississippi 43, Mississippi 603 at Kiln and the possible erection of warning signs at the Kiln-DeLisle Road intersection," the letter read.

"We will study this location and advise you of our findings and recommendations upon completion of our investigation," Moseley's letter concluded.

The board approved a recommendation to contact the highway department and inquire about the status of the four-lane proposal.

In other board action Tuesday, Burk and Associates, planners and engineers for a proposed Bayou Cade anchorage basin and Port Bienville Industrial Park improvements, requested the board approve three separate contracts on the plans and construction of the proposed projects.

According to a spokesman for Burk and Associates, the projects must be completed under separate contracts to be eligible for Coastal Energy Impact Program funds.

The board also took action after lengthy discussion involving the

Sheriff foils jailbreak try

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner and deputies discovered three one-inch bars sawed completely through on a routine investigation of the county jail late Wednesday.

The damaged cell was occupied by seven prisoners. Found in the cell were a total of nine hack saw blades wrapped in a cloth and stashed in a crack in the wall.

Ladner estimated it took several days to saw through the one inch bars. Soap was used to place the bars in the windows so they wouldn't be detected by deputies.

The routine check was conducted by Sheriff Ladner, Ronnie Peterson, chief deputy; Dennis Tartavouille, deputy; and J.W. Page, county jailer.

The prisoners in the cell were in for various reasons. One was being held for rape, kidnapping and armed robbery; another awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary on a three-year sentence; one held as a fugitive from Florida; one awaiting Grand Jury action; and bond jumping; another held on a burglary charge; and two prisoners being held on misdemeanor charges.

Ladner said temporary measures were taken to fill in the space of the missing bars until welders could make replacements.

"We have to conduct routine shake downs, just like any other jail in this country," Sheriff Ladner said.

The saw blades being of three types probably were smuggled in on three different occasions," Ladner commented.

A careful watch will be maintained on the escape-prone prisoners," Ladner said.

Beauchamp traces Acadian roots

By DEPILET
A rare treat is in store for all who wish to attend an affair to be given in the Waveland Library on Tuesday, November 21, at 1:30 p.m. when a tape entitled 'The Cajun and the Acadian' authored by Elise Beauchamp will be presented through the courtesy of Librarian Mildred Means.

Following the 40 minute hearing of this well researched and carefully documented essay, Mrs. Beauchamp will be available to answer any pertinent questions, Mrs. Means explained.

The Bill of Rights Chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution located in Lorton, Virginia recently commissioned Mrs. Beauchamp to provide researched material concerning the little known history of the Acadians for use in their program structure.

Assisting with the materials, selected for research were staff members of the Waveland library, who were gratified to locate a wealth of interesting and often amusing entries, documents and books.

The narrative begins with the year 1605 and traces the odyssey of the Acadians, Catholic French transplants, through Canada where the first census of the group was taken in 1671 by the English Army. The Army determined 59 family heads with a total populace of 320 persons must be deported.

A stirring account of the exodus is recorded and historian M'sieu Bena Arsenault's Histerie et Genealogie des Acadians listed deeds, family records and treasured pieces of china, silver, and porcelain as having been successfully hidden and brought with the cast out group.

The arrival of French and Canadians to Louisiana in 1716 is described. Mrs. Beauchamp depicts the

MEC committee proposes Model school district

A special study committee under the Education Committee of the Mississippi Economic Council has taken a good look at the state's public school districts and the results of that study will be considered by the Council's Board of Directors when it meets today in Jackson.

Education Chairman Lewis Mallory, a Starkville banker, said that the report and recommendations from the special study group were approved by his general committee early in October and will be on the Board agenda.

The special committee, chaired by Dr. W.B. Thompson, chairman of the Department of Education at Mississippi College, reviewed the various types of school districts in the state and has recommended a single set of school laws.

"Mississippi public education suffers from the confusion of having four different types of school districts—municipal, separate countywide, special municipal, and consolidated—all having different descriptions, methods of selection of a superintendent, taxing provisions, and governing body selection qualifications," said Mallory.

Thompson, a former superintendent of the Greenville Separate School District, said, "In our study we tried to develop a basic structure for the most effective school district. The Mississippi Economic Council has long supported establishment of one kind of school district with uniform administrative and financial prerogatives."

MEC President G.B. Beard of Jackson said that, if approved by the Board of Directors, this study and its findings will be presented to the Legislature when it convenes for the 1979 session.

SPEC. 4 E. J. JACOBS

Since the infamous Berlin Wall was built around this city, some 50,000 people have risked their lives to escape East Berlin and find freedom in the West.

Spec. 4 Eric J. Jacobs, son of Mrs. Mary C. Jacobs, Route 2, Pass Christian, recently entered East Berlin to observe conditions on the communist-controlled side of the Berlin Wall.

The excursion was part of an orientation tour of the divided city that is given to U.S. Army members stationed in Europe.

The Berlin Orientation Tour is intended "to give American soldiers a first hand look at the differences between a free and a controlled society, so they can see for themselves why they are stationed in Germany," according to Army officials.

The hope is that the contrast will add new meaning to their roles and assignments in West Germany. Under the Potsdam Agreement, members of the U.S. military are permitted access to East Berlin.

In August, 1976, Germans on both sides of the Berlin Wall observed the 15th year of its existence.

Numerous memorial services were held at the graves of the hundreds who lost their lives trying to escape into West Berlin.

Jacobs is a gunner with the 27th Field Artillery in Friedberg, Germany.

The specialist is a 1976 graduate of Pass Christian High School.

PVT. F. E. MCCLELLAN

Marine Private Frank E. McClellan, brother of Betty Ginn of 314 Morton Ave., Pass Christian, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During the nine-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

He joined the Marine Corps in May 1978.

Refreshments rather than a full meal will be served, including sandwiches, dessert and drinks. The program should last about one hour.

"I am looking forward to seeing you then," said William O. Goodwin, Extension 4-H Youth Agent.

New avenue for Save The Bay

Appeals Court strikes pollution judgement

The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals this week left the way open for Save The Bay to continue its fight against the Dupont Delaware plant's effluent discharge onto the upper shores of Bay St. Louis.

The Fifth Circuit dismissed Save The Bay's appeal from a 1977 ruling by U.S. Magistrate John Roper denying the group's request for an injunction halting the outfall line because, it said, a magistrate's ruling can not be appealed.

But the appeals court left the door open for Save the Bay to refile its action because a magistrate can not enter final judgments.

"In this environmental suit about the discharge of pollutants into Bay St. Louis, all parties consented to trial and the entry of final judgment by the magistrate and the district court approved this consent," the Fifth Circuit said.

"The resulting judgment was appealed to us, but it is not appealable. Magistrates can not enter final judgments, even with the consent of the parties," the Court explained.

Save the Bay may refile its appeal from the district court level after a district judge reviews the magistrate's action and makes his own final judgement, the Fifth Circuit said.

The 24-inch effluent outfall line that will emit treated wastes from DuPont's titanium dioxide plant into the marshlands bordering the bay is crucial to the plant's operation.

Save the Bay contended in its original pleading that Du Pont, the Army Corps of Engineers and Col. Drake Wilson, formerly the Corps's district engineer, did not comply with the requirements of three federal pollution laws when permits were issued for construction of the outfall line.

The environmental group said the Corps did not prepare the required environmental impact statement before issuing the permits for the line.

Roper, however, ruled in favor of the chemical conglomerate and the Corps, saying that they had complied with provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act, the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act and the Marine Protection, Research and Sanctuaries Act in issuing the permits.

An environmental impact statement was not required, Roper ruled, because "environmental assessment" made by Wilson after public hearings in 1975 "is based upon substantial evidence and is reasonable."

After those hearings, Wilson issued a statement of findings in which he "determined that there would be no adverse effect on air quality and that water quality would only be affected by temporary and localized turbidity (suspended foreign matter) resulting from the installation of the effluent outfall line." Roper wrote in a 16-page opinion accompanying his denial of the injunction.

Roper agreed with Wilson's assessment that "the environmental effects associated with the proposed action were such that the preparation of an environmental impact statement was not required."

The magistrate also noted Wilson's finding that "no state or federal agency had opposed the issuance of the permit and no agency recommended conditions or restriction to (the) permit (and) the requisite Mississippi State permit had been issued for the proposed activity."

Waveland man victim in US-90 collision

By RICH ADAMS

A two-car collision at the intersection of US-90 and Nicholson Avenue in Waveland resulted in the death of a Waveland man Sunday night.

According to Waveland Police Investigator Robert Tartavouille, James Chene Brooks, 23, Rt. 1, Waveland, died of internal injuries at Gulfport Memorial Hospital after his compact car was broadsided by a car driven by John W. Kentzel, 19, 117 Hillcrest Avenue, Pass Christian.

The accident occurred at 9 p.m. Sunday night, Hancock County Coroner Carl Banderet said.

After being transported to Hancock General Hospital and on to Gulfport Memorial Hospital, Brooks was pronounced dead due to internal injuries at 11:26 p.m., the coroner added.

Kentzel, a member of the U.S. Navy on leave, was charged with manslaughter and reckless driving. He was freed Sunday night on a $5,000 bond, Tartavouille reported.

According to the police, Kentzel was eastbound on US-90 and failed to stop at a red light at the intersection where Brooks was entering the highway from Nicholson Avenue.

The investigator said Kentzel's car broadsided the Brooks vehicle, striking the car on the driver's side.

"This is the 16th or 17th death in the county this year...that's almost one death per thousand," Tartavouille said. "I think we had ten deaths last year," he added.

A passenger in the Brooks car, Mary London, 22, P.O. Box 448, Waveland, was treated and released at Hancock General Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

Brooks' body was taken to his home town, Citronella, Ala., where he will be buried.

Waveland Police Officers Al Signorelli and Ray Murphy are investigating the mishap, Tartavouille said.

The Waveland Fire Department and Mobile Medic assisted in rescue operations at the scene.

Citizen lobby charges Lott funds illegal

Common Cause has charged that the Mississippi State Medical Association and the American Medical Association made illegal contributions to the 1976 re-election campaign of Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss.

The allegations are contained in a suit filed in federal district court in Washington last week and involving 45 cases in which it said contributions exceeded the $5,000 limitation on political action committees.

The suit contended that the state and national groups should be treated as one, subject to the $5,000 limit. The AMA said the two groups are separate.

Lott received $5,000 from the AMA Political Action Committee and $2,000 from the Mississippi Medical Political Action Committee.

"There is an apparent disagreement between Common Cause and the Medical Association," said Lott, who said that since the matter would be resolved in court that further comment is inappropriate.

FBI Possible...

"I spoke with the superintendent and he asked if we, the PTO, had made measurements and calculated the costs. This is not our responsibility. We had assumed the school officials who are paid for this would carry out these details," Ms. McCormick said.

"The superintendent suggested we contact Mr. Donn Murray. I don't feel this is our responsibility. Rather, the responsibility should rest with the school administration," she continued.

"Let's not let time and weather run out on us. The dry month of October would have been perfect for this project. Soon it will be winter and rainy and instead of a dustbowl we will have a mud hole. We would like to know again tonight when we can expect some action on this request," she concluded.

Ms. McCormick said she had contacted Bay St. Louis Councilman James

Thrillley, who said he needs a letter from the school board prior to laying the asphalt.

Also at the meeting, the board passed a resolution to publish monthly dockets in a local newspaper at the request of the PTO.

Prior to the meeting, school dockets were posted at the Hancock County Courthouse and Bay St. Louis City Hall. According to McCullough, wind has apparently blown past dockets off the doors of the two buildings.

Ms. McCormick also asked for a decision on an ultimatum offered the board by the PTO to revise Policy 18 or face federal charges.

Board Member Maurice Singleton said a revision of Policy 18 has been discussed, but has not been approved.

"Policy 18 is unconstitutional...a clear-cut violation of civil rights. If you don't revise the policy, our only alternate is federal court action," Ms. McCormick said.

Congratulations to the coaches and players

We have to congratulate head coaches Billy Rhodes, Irvin Favre, Bill Poole and Bob Lumpkin and their assistant coaches for teaching their prospective football players good sportsmanship.

Having had an opportunity to view all the encounters between Bay High, Hancock North Central, St. Stanislaus and Pass Christian High Schools, we must also congratulate the players from each school on their conduct on the football field.

We would like to see each team win every game, but, that is impossible with the four schools playing one another. When we compile the records of the four schools, it is really nothing to be ashamed of - their combined record is 24-17.

Sportsmanship is something many teams lack, yet it is as important as knowing how to play. Our coaches should all be told by everyone how their efforts to teach these young men is appreciated by our communities.

Many of the football players at these four schools are lifelong friends and yet other members of the squads do not know a player on any of the other three teams.

When a coaching staff can teach the players how to control their tempers, the coaches have done a fine job, and the combatants have learned well.

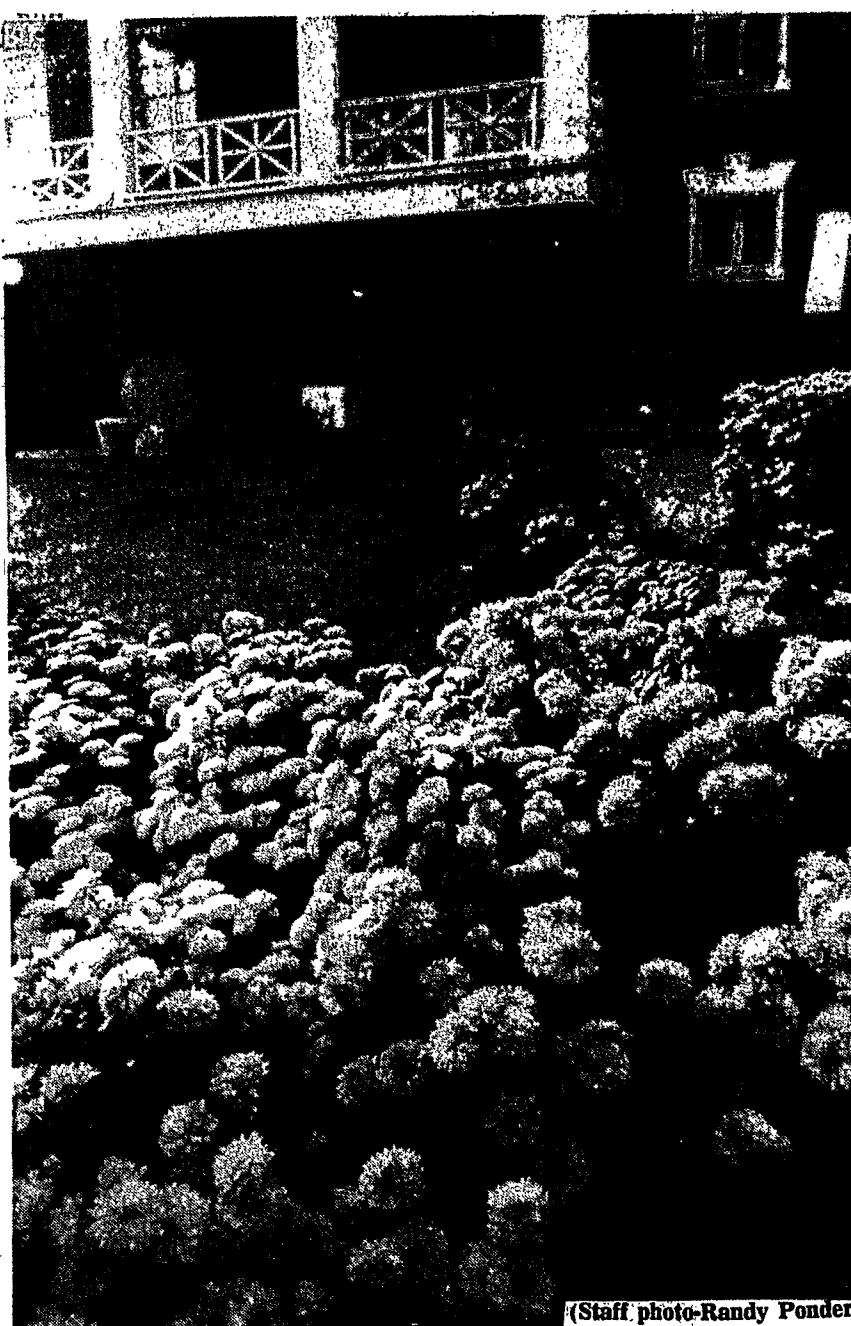

With the regular football season now over, we would like to offer special congratulations to the Hancock North Central Hawks and the Pass Christian Pirates on their invitations to bowl appearances.

Hancock North Central has accepted an invitation to play in the annual Wendell Ladner Memorial Bowl Saturday night. The Hawks will be seeking their first bowl victory. Coach Favre and the Hawks should be ready for Rosedale who are sporting a 20-0 record for two seasons.

The Pass Christian Pirates have accepted an invite to play in the annual Pickle Bowl in Perkinston Friday. Coach Lumpkin's Pirates were impressive with their defeat of the Hawks Friday.

We will be on the sidelines cheering them to victory and we hope the supporters of the two schools will also attend the bowl games to show their appreciation to the players and coaches for a fine season.

Good Luck Hawks and Pirates.

LETTERS

To The Editor

Floral array at Bay City Hall

Dear Sir:

May I make the suggestion that citizens of Bay St. Louis take a walk slowly past our City Hall to enjoy the spectacular array of multi-colored chrysanthemums now blooming in profusion?

The plantings are done in the best of good taste and the effect is pleasing to the eye.

Bay St. Louis has always been such a pleasant and pretty little town and during this Indian Summer of comfortable weather, beautiful autumn flowers, and fall foliage interspersed with greenery of pine, liveoak and other shrubs we should look long - appreciate deeply - and count our blessings.

Traditionally, November 23 has been set aside as Thanksgiving Day to remind us of the Harvest Season. With Autumn upon us and wealth of beauty surrounding us, it would seem impossible to crowd so much appreciation into a single day.

Let us take time to observe - to reflect - to be thankful.

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis
Sir:

I would like to thank School Superintendent Terry Randolph, H.N.C. Principal Thad Haskins, and School Board Members Louie Ladner and Woodrow Ladner for their valiant and unceasing efforts on behalf of the school bond issue.

These men spent countless hours attending meetings, answering questions, and explaining the need for additional educational facilities for our children.

I'd like to congratulate Supervisors Bert Courrage and James Travirca for having the courage to publicly support the issue. I find it appalling that the three other Supervisors showed so little concern for the children of their constituency.

Roland Ladner, election commissioner, is to be congratulated for his professional manner during the ballot recount. He was strictly impartial and scrupulously fair.

The hassle is over, and, as Mr. Randolph has stated, "This is a victory for the children." I hope we can now unite in our love and concern for these children and help to make the Hancock County School System one of the best.

Too much noise

Dear Sir:

The Veterans Day Parade was small but beautiful. It was a parade of bands, small children, cheerleaders, drill teams, costumed participants and a handful of men riding - not in convertibles where they could be seen - but huddled all together in a sedan.

It was led by a Police car and a sheriff's car, with two siren-happy drivers whose mission in life was to drown out every other sound, and reign supreme in the decibels of horror.

I think if I were the leader of the Hancock North Central Hawks Band, I'd say a polite but firm "No" to any suggestion that they be the lead off band ever again.

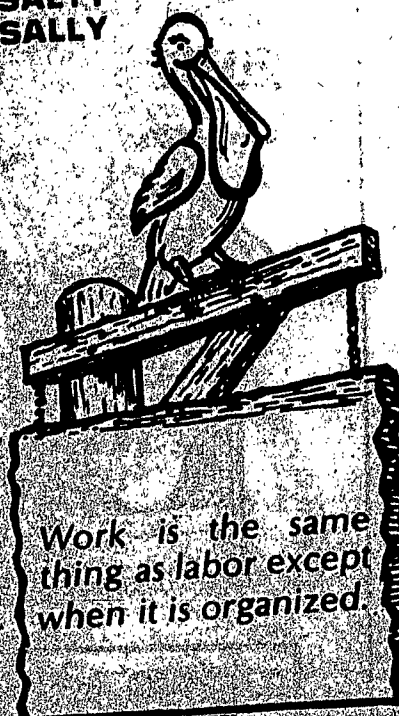

The tiny drums of the Waveland Warriors tinkled merrily and were heard. St. Stanislaus Rocks played and made music and were heard. Tiger Pride sang happily along in the rear and were heard. The Hawks played and played and played (I caught the parade three times to be sure) and not one note rose above the sirens and racket horns of the two parade leaders, the police and the sheriff.

It might have been intended as a parade of bands, local talent to be proud of, but the one that should have counted might as well have stayed home.

I have no children in any of the schools, no special loyalties, but in the interest of fairness I am writing this year what I started to think about last. Give these kids a chance...they're putting out for you, Bay St. Louis.

Sincerely,
Elsie Beauchamp

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL —
THE STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

STATE SHINES IN THE SUNBELT

The Sunbelt, of which Mississippi is a part, promises to be the new frontier in the nation's economic life, according to most business and economic leaders.

One of the indicators in its development is its economic stability a point brought out in a recent study, entitled "Mississippi Outlook," compiled by the National Chamber Forecast and Survey Center of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The forecast is for the period up to and including 1980.

National Chamber forecasters predict that the U.S. economy will grow more slowly during the next two years than it did in the last two years, while the East South Central states are forecast to grow more rapidly than the nation as a whole.

But in Mississippi, a part of that East South Central region, economic conditions promise to be better than for the nation or the other states in the region. The study went on to say that nonagricultural employment is forecast to grow at a 3.4 percent annual growth rate through 1980 for an average of 27,750 new jobs each year.

The before-tax average household income is forecast to grow more rapidly than that for the nation and will rise to 76 percent of the national average by 1980; growth in average household income will remain about $8,272 lower than the national average.

Despite better economic conditions, inflation will still plague Americans with 6.5 percent or higher consumer price increases which will keep interest rates, wages, and unit labor costs high. Unemployment is forecast to remain about 6 percent nationally.

But because of government policies increasing Social Security taxes and the minimum wage, inflation is predicted to be higher in the East South Central region. The study said that lower average wages account for these government policies having greater impact on this region.

WASHINGTON REPORT

FROM

U. S. SENATOR JOHN STENNIS

WASHINGTON REPORT

FROM

U. S. SENATOR JOHN STENNIS

Dear Friend:

This has been the most active session of the Senate in many years, involving many legislative actions on major domestic issues and foreign policy decisions. There is much more to be done in the next Congress, but I believe that some significant progress has been made this year.

We have a sound military program for national security. Some progress has been made toward a balanced budget.

Tax reductions have been passed, including some that are designed to encourage business investment. A start has been made toward a national energy policy.

Prospects are better for peace in the Middle East. There is a new and much needed sense of "lost consciousness" in government, growing out of Proposition 13 in California and similar actions in other states.

The Congress shows signs of turning away from the liberal policies that have commanded a majority of votes for many years, and embracing a more conservative approach to problems, which I believe better represents the views of most tax paying Americans.

Looking forward to the coming year and the next session of Congress, there are major problems to be addressed. Inflation remains a real threat to our way of life; reduced government spending and a revival of the work ethic are factors in overcoming it.

A balanced budget must remain a prime objective for the near future.

Dependence on foreign oil is unacceptable for national security, and is a prime reason for inflation and the reduced value of the dollar.

The annual increase in productivity is declining from previous levels and falling behind increases in other nations.

The Salt II treaty with the Soviet Union will be highly controversial and the outcome crucial in years to come.

American farmers continue to suffer from a cost-price squeeze, and the problem will again be before the next Congress, as it was in this one.

The confrontation between the President and the Congress on development of water resources will continue; when the facts are fully developed they will confirm the wisdom of a continued program of carefully selected water projects as an investment of the future.

Overregulation by the Federal government continues to be an unwarranted intrusion in business and industry, and affects the daily lives of all citizens.

In the field of foreign affairs we can expect that relations with Mainland China will become somewhat closer, without abandoning our obligations to Taiwan.

The problems in Africa will become more acute, and as a world power the United States will be involved in seeking solutions.

We can expect that as the peace negotiations in the Middle East progress the Soviet Union will bring increased pressures to bear in the area; stability in Iran is particularly important to our national interests.

There is much to be done in the next Congress, and I look forward to working hard toward solutions to problems of the Nation.

MISSISSIPPI CONSUMER REPORT

$5,000 TO MAKE $400

Q: I am considering investing in a distributorship of a product which was advertised in the "business opportunity" section of the newspaper. What are the risks involved? What are my chances of making large profits which were advertised?

A: Most newspapers carry several advertisements which solicit distributors of such products such as burglar alarms, auto parts, toys, jewelry and vending machines. Some of the advertisements have such statements as "investment guaranteed $360 net per week part time" and "income range - $35,000 to $70,000." In order to enter the distributorship the buyer usually has to pay about $5,000 for ten or twelve sale locations of the product.

The first thing the buyer must realize is that he is first a buyer of a good, which is the distributorship, and he must judge if this is a wise investment, keeping in mind that he may never have participated in this kind of business before.

The buyer should be careful about entering any sales endeavor in which he is not familiar with the product or the sale of the product. Although the product may be advertised as one that "sells itself," the buyer should determine for himself the public demand for the product in his area.

For example, a product may have an excellent market nationwide, but may be "flooded" in a particular area.

Most companies that solicit distributorship usually promise to place the distributor in a certain number of "high traffic flow" locations in order to sell the product. Many times a distributor finds that these outlets produce little or no sales for the distributor.

The buyer should consider the amount of competition he will have in selling the product. Many distributors have found other distributors of the company in the same area. The buyer should also consider the number of stores in his area that are selling the same product, some possibly at lower prices than he could sell the product.

OLE MISS COURSE FOCUSES ON ENERGY PROBLEMS

A University of Mississippi physics professor uses an analog computer that simulates energy consumption and brings in outside experts as speakers in a nontechnical course he has designed to help students face decisions about energy use. "We're rapidly using up all the gas, oil and coal we'll ever have in the world," says the professor, Dr. Lee Bolen. "The oil and gas will be gone in a few years. It'll take a little longer for us to run out of coal, but we will face serious air pollution problems from burning massive amounts of coal." The effects, he says, will be felt by everyone, and the public will be faced with critical decisions regarding energy use. Experts are discussing these problems in the course, which is being videotaped so that the lectures can be made available to high schools and colleges throughout Mississippi. The National Science Foundation has provided a grant to assist in developing the course.

FIDDLE CONTESTANT - Sylvester Moran, 85, is scheduled to participate in the Fiddling Contest and Talent Show Saturday at 7 p.m. in Sy Rosenthal Gymnasium. B. D. (Fip) Johnston, chairman, said proceeds will go to the Musician's Charitable Fund. There will be cash prizes in the fiddling contest. Moran, a native of Hancock County, now lives in North Harrison County. His prior residence near Kila was purchased by the U.S. government for the NSTL buffer zone. His antique fiddle has a name tag saying: "Antonius Stradiarius Cremonensis, Facieb at Anno 1721, Made in Czechoslovakia." Moran, who has played the fiddle since he was 12, attended St. Stanislaus and was a member of the band. In 1974, Moran was invited by the Smithsonian Institute to perform in the July 2-7 Arts Festival in Washington, D.C. (Staff photo - Ellis Cuevas)

FBI director pleads need for informants

By WILLIAM H. WEBSTER
FBI Director

(Special to The Echo)
Today, the use of informants by law enforcement is a matter of public debate - and the necessary confidentiality of informants is also being challenged.

It is not necessary to demonstrate the value of informants to working police officers; law enforcement professionals know the indispensable role of informants in criminal investigations.

The problem is to make our case to the public, whose perception of our need is prejudiced from the outset by a traditional aversion to informing, an attitude characterized by the very words used to describe "confidential" sources - "snitches," "squealers," and "stooges."

In our profession we know that informants can range from the traditional small-time entrepreneur who knows every hoodlum in his "turf" to today's employee who learns of a sophisticated white-collar scheme to defraud the firm or the public and is the only person who can alert authorities.

The use of informants is grounded in historic precedent that has been upheld by the courts over the years. But now we must again make a brief for the practice, or risk losing this investigative technique.

The FBI makes no secret of its use of informants. Some of our biggest cases have been solved through a combination of hard legwork and timely informant contributions - the Brinks robbery and the murders of the three civil rights workers in Mississippi come to mind.

Last year, 2,600 Federal arrests and the recovery of property valued at $200 million resulted from the FBI's general criminal informant program, accomplishments realized at a cost of only $927,000.

The Department of Justice fully recognizes the necessity of using informants; the Assistant Attorney General of the Criminal Division recently testified that "...the use of informants is a most important investigative technique - one that we need in our efforts to combat organized and white-collar crime, official corruption, narcotics, and organized violence."

He also made a most important point about informants who are themselves part of the criminal element: "...they are able to report crimes that are still in the planning stages, thus allowing the government to prevent these crimes, and to spare potential victims from physical and economic injury."

The traditional common sense of America's jury of public opinion will undoubtedly prevail, and law enforcement will make its case on informants. But we face a second challenge, the attack on the confidential relationship between law officer and informant.

The Attorney General of the United States has resolutely faced this challenge in a recent case with a determined stand on the side of confidentiality within the limits of the law. Recognition of the serious danger in this issue has even come from the press, which faces challenges of its own on the use of confidential sources.

The Atlanta Constitution editorially noted that "like the FBI, the CIA and other intelligence agencies, the press depends to a considerable extent on a trust relationship between confidential informants...just as it should not be difficult for reasonable people to see why Attorney General Griffin Bell is reluctant to reveal the names of FBI informants - they might get killed, for one thing - the press is reluctant to break its pledges of confidentiality with its news sources. There is nothing sinister about this - it seems to us that a pledge of confidentiality is something that should be honored."

There are inherent risks in the use of confidential sources, as this editorial points out. In both law enforcement and in news gathering the question arises, "How far can their information be trusted?"

In the FBI a basic rule for many years has been to verify informant information through independent investigation whenever possible.

This policy was included in guidelines worked out by the Department of Justice and the FBI under former Attorney General Edward Levi in 1976. In recent congressional testimony on FBI charter legislation, the Department noted the guidelines outlined "limitation on the activities of informants... even though many of these limitations were already set forth in individual FBI instructions or recognized in existing practice."

Guideline for use of informants, whether departmental or embodied in a new congressional charter for the FBI, will be followed while I am Director. I fully support the spirit of the present guidelines that "while it is proper for the FBI to use informants in appropriate investigations... the FBI must also insure that individual rights are not infringed and that the government itself does not become a violator of the law."

Together, we must reassure the American people that the law enforcement profession recognizes the risks in the use of confidential sources - that we will act judiciously on informant information to insure that "individual rights are not infringed."

Army ROTC scholarship deadline approaches

High school seniors interested in Army ROTC scholarships should begin preparing applications now, according to Col. Tom Adams, professor of military science at Jackson State University. About 1,000 full tuition four-year scholarships will be awarded to students who will enter college in the fall of 1979. In addition to paying all tuition costs for four years, the scholarships also cover books and laboratory fees. Scholarship students will receive a monthly allowance of $100 for up to ten months of each school year. Adams pointed out that with today's rising college costs, the Army ROTC scholarship could easily be worth more than $12,000 over the four-year period. To be eligible, a student must be a United States citizen, be at least 17 years old by Oct. 1, 1979 and under 25 years old on June 30, 1983, and be able to pass a medical examination. Applicants should plan on entering college next fall and be able to graduate by June 30, 1983. Completed applications must be returned to the Army no later than Dec. 15, 1978. Students interested in the Army ROTC scholarship should see their high school counselor or write Army ROTC Scholarship, Fort Monroe, VA 23651, for further details.

News About Pain Relief

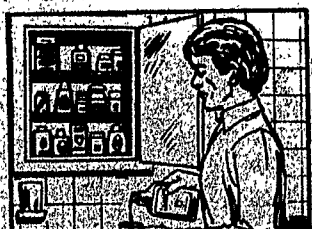

By Dr. Arthur S. Freese

PROBLEM: SWALLOWING PILLS?

Surveys show that nearly 10% of American adults are interested in liquid medicines because they have difficulty swallowing pills and capsules or don't like to. This is particularly true of the elderly who are often taking many different kinds of medications.

Currently, many medications, including cold products and antacids, are available in liquid form to help people with swallowing problems. However, pain relievers, one of the most frequently taken over-the-counter medications, have never been made available in liquid form. For instance, aspirin is typically found in tablet form because it is unstable in solution. Therefore, out of necessity, consumers have devised ingenious ways to take pain relief tablets, such as folding a pill into a piece of bread, crushing it in apple sauce, or breaking apart a capsule and pouring the contents into a glass of juice.

Finally, there is a pain reliever available in a liquid form—it's called Extra-

Strength TYLENOL® Adult Liquid. This product contains acetaminophen, which is stable in solution, as effective as aspirin, yet safer because of the relative lack of side effects. Extra-Strength TYLENOL® Adult Liquid is available without a prescription in 8 oz. and 16 oz. bottles and has a pleasant mint flavor. The product comes with a measuring cup which allows people to choose either a regular strength or extra-strength dosage by following simple label instructions. So, if you are one of those millions of Americans who just can't seem to get a pain reliever tablet down now there is a convenient solution to your problem.

Mayor unhappy with Council's actions

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett called a press conference Tuesday to say the City Council handled several items on the Docket last Thursday in an unfair manner because all they would have had to do was "read a little further and there was an explanation."

The Council held back payment on several docket items for further information before giving approval.

The big item the Council discussed was the purchase of 50 many gross of pens. Bennett said that his office hadn't ordered the pens and that they have been returned, "as a matter of a fact some left today."

Bennett explained that in 1977 he ordered several gross of pens so his office could issue them out to each department without all having to purchase them and also to get a better price.

The pens which the Council questioned, two orders totalling about $700, were sent in error by a computer as no purchase orders were made out for them, according to Bennett.

Bennett went over several of the questioned items such as a chain saw rental which the City eventually purchased, firemen's association cards, clay gravel, sand, asphalt prices, etc.

One sand purchase item discussed by the Council had an error in the amount on the statement making it look like it was very high in price.

The water chlorination charges were because in checking water pressures on the lines, (which Bennett says the Utility department does on a routine basis), a fire plug at the corner of Turner and Eighth Streets was not connected to the system.

"Everytime new pipe is connected to the system, the lines have to be chlorinated, so I gave the orders to do it. If someone in the area home was threatened by a fire, we would have looked good with water at the plug," Bennett said.

Mayor Bennett said he was in Jackson at the time of the meeting checking on the CETA program which was scheduled to expire on Dec. 15.

"We have either 24 or 26 employees through the City departments funded through this program. I was unable to get the funds extended with help from the Governor's office," the mayor explained.

Bennett says according to government regulations, he only has to attend one meeting a year.

At the start of the press conference, Bennett commented, "I made a personal call at my own expense to the Pope in Rome to see if I could be instructed on how to be as infallible as some of our council members."

During the conference, Bennett said several times he "didn't think it was fair" the way the Council handled it (the dockets) while I was out of town."

BARTERED BRIDE - Returning to the Metropolitan Opera repertoire after 35 years, a new all-English version of Smetana's popular comic opera, "The Bartered Bride," will be telecast live over the Public Broadcasting Service on Tuesday evening, November 21 at 7 p.m., on Miss. ETV. A sketch of Marenka's costume, to be worn by Teresa Stratas in the title role, is shown above. This is the second live telecast from the Met with two more following this season.

school board), then pretty soon you are talking real money...real money which could be much better used for educational purposes," he added.

Wilkinson asked on behalf of the AFT that the board consider four recommendations.

"No public money be authorized by the board to pay the expenses of members of local professional associations attending out-of-town functions of such associations," Wilkinson said.

"That the Board of Trustees not interfere in the affairs of local professional organizations by designating members of such organizations to attend any meeting of these organizations as representatives of the board," he continued.

"The Board of Trustees announce these policies to the local professional organizations so they may be aware of their responsibility to fund from local treasuries such portions of the expenses of their members attending association meetings as they see fit," Wilkinson further stated.

"And that any such funds in the current school budget earmarked for such purposes be immediately withdrawn and reassigned to more worthwhile educational purposes," Wilkinson added in closing.

Board member Maurice Singleton thanked the union president for his comments.

The board took no action nor did they discuss Wilkinson's suggestions and recommendations at Monday's meeting.

Fire Threat...

"We aren't issuing permits when conditions are so dry. Today is a condition-four day, and no burning should be done," she continued.

"If you start a fire without a permit, and a large fire results, you will have to pay a large sum in damages."

"If you turn your back on a small fire for one second...especially on a dry, windy day...it could go out of control and burn acres and acres," she added.

In the city, Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Richard Fayard said his department has banned all burning until a substantial rain dampens the area.

"We're not issuing any permits. If somebody is caught burning, they receive a ticket and pay a fine," Richard Fayard said.

"My advice is not to burn at all until we get some rain," the chief added. Waveland Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard said his department is issuing container burning permits only.

"People can burn trash and leaves only if they use a container. You need a permit," Kenneth Fayard said.

"We have caught a few week-end people who didn't know any better burning trash and leaves, but local people have been doing just fine on not burning," the Waveland official said.

Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, therefore the recommendation for separate contracts must come from the commission.

The Port and Harbor Commission approved the separate contracts in a meeting November 9, but Executive Director Wilson W. Webb failed to bring the resolution approving the contracts before the board Tuesday.

Kellar said the board will not sign the pacts with Burk and Associates until the matter is brought up by the Port and Harbor Commission.

In a related matter involving the Port and Harbor Commission, Webb presented the board with a resolution requesting the board to reaffirm its intentions to exempt Borg-Warner from ad valorem taxes.

Webb reported to the board a new law effective January 1, 1979, requires new industries to pay school taxes in addition to a four mill state tax.

Borg-Warner has been negotiating for some time with the Port and Harbor Commission concerning a proposed plant to be constructed at Port Blenville.

The new law would not be applicable to Borg-Warner if a statement from the board were drafted stating Borg-Warner was negotiating construction prior to the January 1 deadline.

The board approved the resolution by a unanimous vote.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, Hancock County School Superintendent Terry Randolph thanked the supervisors for their assistance and support in passing a $3.4 million school bond issue.

The money from bond sales will go to construct a new Hancock County school complex in the southwestern end of the county.

The bond issue was passed by one vote, receiving 60.02 percent of the votes.

A 60 percent majority was needed to pass the issue.

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank the board for pushing the issue," Randolph said.

"The majority of the people spoke...they want better schools and better education," he continued.

"I would also like to thank the people of Hancock County for passing the bond issue," he added.

Randolph said Beat Three Supervisor Oscar Peterson had recommended the bond issue in a prior meeting as the best way for the school system to raise money.

"I said a bond issue for the schools would be the best way to benefit the entire county," said Peterson.

Randolph again thanked the supervisors, and said the schools would be in bad shape had the bond issue failed.

"I'm very glad the bond issue passed. We're in good shape now," Randolph added.

Pre-election notices warn of accreditation jeopardy

FROM GULFVIEW ELEM.
SCHOOL
LAKEHORE, MS. 39559
To the Parents and Voter of Hancock County:

There has been much talk pro and con about the bond issue for upgrading our school system to meet the requirements set forth by the State and Federal law.

One issue that has been mentioned is that of accreditation. Without passage of this bond issue, I do not foresee any way that Hancock County can retain its accreditation.

The loss of accreditation will mean a loss of considerable Federal and State money. This could result in the following:

- (1) A student who attends an unaccredited school cannot attend any college without taking a very strenuous entrance exam.
- (2) Free and reduced lunch program will be abolished.
- (3) The school will not receive any money for textbooks from the state. This could result in students having to purchase their own books.
- (4) State money for buses and transportation will be cut out.
- (5) State money that helps support vocational courses will be cut. This includes vocational agriculture, home economics and drafting.

(6) Title I money from the federal Government will be cut. This money supports the Reading and Special Education Program.

(7) Title IV money for the library will be cut.

(8) The loss of accreditation will mean that students cannot compete in extra-curricular activities with other schools. This includes basketball, football, baseball, track and band.

I feel it is very necessary that each parent consider what the bond issue will mean to their child. We desperately need that additional facilities at Hancock North Central and the southern end of the County, not only to the overcrowding but to be able to enrich our curriculum to include such subjects as remedial reading, art, elementary P.E., Business, and a program for the gifted students.

Thinking of your child and mine,

NORDA improves sub detection

"THE FORSYTE SAGA" - Jo Forsythe, portrayed by British Academy Award-winner Kenneth More, is seen in a reflective mood near the end of his life in John Galsworthy's "The Forsyte Saga" to be rebroadcast at 2 p.m., Saturdays, beginning November 18, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

An electronic filter developed by the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity (NORDA) for use with a Magnetic Anomaly Detection (MAD) system can achieve substantial improvement in pinpointing the location or localization of submarines from the air.

As a result of recent sea tests of the filter, the Navy's Seventh Fleet has recommended that several filters be procured for long-term evaluation under realistic operating conditions.

The airborne MAD system exploits the principle that a submarine in the ocean depths can be identified by its magnetic signal or signature.

One problem with the MAD system is that the magnetic signal is often masked by the natural magnetic background noise produced by underwater geological formations.

This noise is particularly high in shallow water areas. While more sensitive MAD equipment increases the detection capability, it also results in greater background noise.

The logical answer to the problem was to develop an environmental filter specifically designed to suppress geological magnetic noise.

NORDA team headed by Kuno Smits who led earlier work, and funded by the Navy Science Assistance Program, recently adapted these filters to operate with the new, more sensitive ASQ-61 MAD system.

A fleet exercise in the western Pacific last August afforded the first opportunity to test the filter at sea with the new system. The test was undertaken even though the available experimental filters had not been designed for that specific area of the ocean, which is known to have unusually high background noise.

It was found that the NORDA filter greatly improved the suppression of geological noise and was able to produce a very recognizable signal on every pass over the target.

It was also found that the higher the geological noise, the more effective the NORDA environmental filter is, relative to the current fleet filter, in target detection. It is estimated that filters of the NORDA type could be produced in quantity for approximately $550 per unit.

Future work will involve tailoring the filter design to operate at peak efficiency in various ocean areas around the world. The work was performed by the Mapping, Charting and Geodesy Development Group of NORDA's Naval Oceanographic Laboratory under the direction of Clifford J. Crandall.

News from the Church of St. Ann

A thought for the day from the library of Father Canisius Hayes, pastor of St. Ann's Parish -

A college education seldom hurts a man if he is willing to learn a little something after he graduates.

St. Ann's Altar Society will not hold its monthly luncheon scheduled for November 22, because of Thanksgiving holidays.

There will be no religious education classes for grades fifth, sixth and seventh Thursday, November 23.

During 9:15 a.m. Mass:

Sunday, November 26, students preparing for the Sacrament of Confirmation will make their Faith commitment to the parish. Religious instructions for the group will follow Mass.

Members of the class have given many hours of service to the parish by doing volunteer services for the aged, beautifying the church grounds, assisting with classes during the summer months and serving as lectors during the Masses. Sister Mary Cornella, religious instructor, added.

Lectors last Saturday during 5 p.m. Mass were Joseph Warden and Tammy Curet. Michael Anthony Shubert, Gerald Ulrich and Tammy Curet served as lectors during 9:15 a.m. Mass Sunday and Joseph Warden and Dawn Lusich presented the gifts.

Hancock Legal Secretaries to meet Dec. 13

Judge Lindsey spoke on the duties of his office and new ideas relative to the city court system which have been inaugurated recently.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas Welfare Project to furnish food, gifts and clothing to a needy family.

Rita Smith, legal education chairman, gave a quiz on Corporations.

The next regular meeting will be held in conjunction with the Christmas party on December 13 at the home of Shug Mallin.

Lamar court orders stock sale halted

A Lamar County Chancery Court order today stopped the further sales of dog breeder stock to Mississippi consumers by Associated Producers, Inc., Ltd. of Sumrall and Lumberton.

In the action brought by Attorney General A.F. Summer under the state's consumer protection law, Chancellor Howard L. Paterson ordered the company to cease certain misrepresentations and its operations in Mississippi.

The company and defendants Glenn and G.E. Rushing were ordered to preserve and not to transfer or convey any assets until further order of the court. A trial on the final merits was set for January in Purvis.

Wendell Ladner Bowl sets Hancock against Rosedale

WENDELL LADNER BOWL-Former HNC basketball star turned professional Wendell Ladner, who died in a plane crash on June 24, 1975, is immortalized each year in the Wendell Ladner Bowl. Ladner was an all-star at USM and continued to the pros where he played for the Louisiana Buccaneers, Memphis Pros, Carolina Cougars, Kentucky Colonels and the champion New York Nets. He was the number two draft choice of the Buccaneers and was selected to play in all-star games his first two years in the major leagues. This year's Wendell Ladner Bowl features Hancock North Central and Rosedale, Miss.

By RICH ADAMS
The Hancock North Central Hawks face an undefeated Rosedale, Miss. gridiron squad Saturday night in the Fourth Annual Wendell Ladner Bowl at Hancock North Central Stadium. Rosedale has won the Delta Valley Conference championship two years in a row, and are ranked 13th in the state.

Hawk head coach Irvin Favre said he believes his squad can register a win in the bowl game.

"It's the end of the year and we're a little tired, but the big factor on our part is in motivation," said coach Favre.

"If we can come around attitude-wise, we can win," he added.

The Hawks have not claimed victory in any of the four previous bowl games they have participated in.

We've haven't won a bowl game in the four we have played...we are looking for a win this year," Favre said.

The Hawks were undefeated last year, and continued their winning streak to 19 until the string of victories was snapped by Notre Dame on October 27.

The Hawks suffered a loss to Pass Christian in a 35-0 shutout last week, their second defeat of the season.

"I hope we're up for this game...we had better be up for it," Favre said.

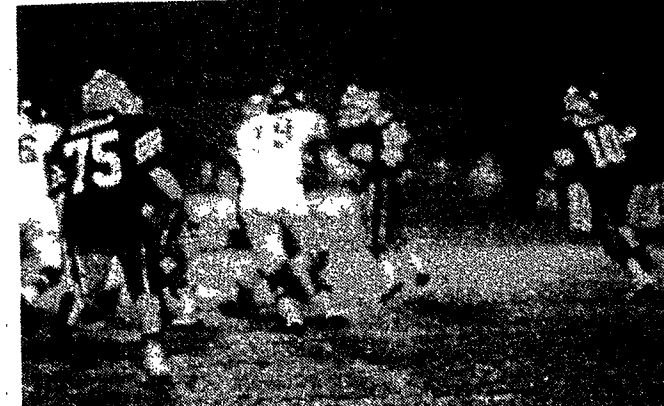

"I hope to go out Saturday to do a better job than last week. Anything would be better than that game," he continued.

"Rosedale is ranked 13th in the state. If we beat Rosedale, we know we've beat somebody. I feel we can win," the Hawk skipper added.

Favre said the Rosedale line is not big, but the offense is very fast.

"Rosedale has two half-backs who gained more than 1,000 yards each this season. This will be a physical game," coach Favre said.

The Wendell Ladner Bowl will be played at Hancock North Central Saturday at 8 p.m.

LOOKING FOR RECEIVER-Vincent Adams, No. 10, looks downfield for receiver as Pirate defenders close in Friday. The Pirates made it a long night for the Hawks keeping them bottled up the entire game. The Pirates won the game 35-0 on explosive plays by several runners. (Staff photo-Ellis Cuevas)

Pass, Panthers matched in Friday's Pickle Bowl

By RICH ADAMS
The Pass Christian Pirates meet Sam Dale Conference champions Waynesboro Panthers in the Pickle Bowl Friday night in Perkinston, Miss.

Pass Christian finished out the regular season last week with a shutout victory over the Hancock North Central Hawks, registering an 8-2 season record.

Pirate Head Coach Bob Lumpkin said Waynesboro is the "biggest team we've ever played."

"Waynesboro is very big and physical. They run a 'power I' offense, and are going to be difficult to stop," coach Lumpkin said.

"I believe they are bigger than d'Iberville. They have one defensive lineman who weighs 295 pounds, and three or four more who weigh about 200 pounds," he added.

Waynesboro won the conference crown in the Sam Dale Conference with a 10-1 season record.

"We have been having good practices with a lot of enthusiasm. We want to win this game, but we want to have a good time, too," Lumpkin said.

"I know we will be ready for the game," the Pirate skipper added.

Early season defensive difficulties were blamed for the two Pass Christian losses, but a recent revamping of the Pirate's defense has produced good results.

"My biggest concern is the defense. We have to try and stop the Panthers and get the ball...somebody who controls the ball will hurt us more than anything else," coach Lumpkin said.

The Pirates were also plagued with injuries in the early part of the season, but now only one key starter is doubtful for Friday's contest.

"Robert Bailey hurt his foot in the Hancock North Central game, and he is taking some time to recover. He is doubtful, but I hope he can play," the Pirate helmsman said.

Bailey ranked second in scoring in the Pascagoula River Conference tally.

The contest will take place in Perkinston at the Gulf Coast Junior College stadium at 7:30 p.m. Friday night.

USM Ladies top seeded

The University of Mississippi Lady Rebels have been seeded number one for the AIAW Region III volleyball tournament this weekend in Lakeland, Florida.

Ole Miss captured its second straight title last Friday with a 15-9, 16-14 victory over Mississippi State. In that tourney Ole Miss also beat Jackson State and Mississippi University for Women.

"We played good in that tournament but we didn't play our best," Ole Miss coach Jeanne Taylor said.

"However, I expect the girls to really be up for the regionals."

Taylor cited Frances Hicks and Linda Conner, both sophomores from Florence, Ala., for outstanding performances at the state tourney.

"Frances really played well on the front row and Linda did a super job all-around," Taylor said. "We also continued to get good play from our setters as we have all season."

The Lady Rebels' record for the season stands at 32-6 and they have won the championships in five tournaments.

Since space is limited in small boats, a smart idea is to choose an ice box that serves more than one purpose.

Although cheap ones made of foam plastic can keep food cold quite well, they are fragile. A sturdier ice box with a cushion on top can be a better buy in the long run. It can serve as a seat, putting the space it occupies to a dual use.

The cushion on top helps keep direct sunlight off the box, conserving the ice.

A box lined with a smooth, dense material does not pick up odors and is very easy to clean thoroughly. So it can serve as a bait or fish box when not being used to hold food.

Hawks drop opener

By RICH ADAMS
Hancock North Central dropped their opening basketball game Tuesday night in a see-saw battle against rivals Harrison North Central.

The Red Rebels downed the Hawks by a mere two point margin, 84-82.

Hawks head coach Roland Ladner said his team "just ran out of gas" in the contest. "I had to go with five starters. I made one substitution in the game, and we just ran out of gas," Ladner said.

"Our boys worked hard, but we don't have too much experience. Our kids did a real fine job," he added.

Allen Dedeaux was top scorer for the Hawks, putting 23 points through the hoop.

Barry Arcement scored 18 for the HNC five, along with Dean Shaw's 18 and Moses Hill's 14.

The Hancock squad travels to d'Iberville Tuesday to battle the Warriors on the court.

Trolling is well known as a method that will often produce larger fish than are ordinarily taken by casting.

Trolling is sometimes referred to as "greyhounding," say Mercury outboards' fishing experts, "because the fishing speed is fast compared to other angling methods.

They point out that speed is the main advantage trolling has over casting since it allows a fisherman to cover a lot of area in a short time.

The basic trolling technique calls for pulling a lure, such as a plug, spoon or spinner, behind a boat as you pass over likely fish holding places.

The lure is usually large since you're depending upon its action to attract a fish from some distance away.

Tackle must be stout to stand up to the pressure a trolled lure places on rod and line.

A stiff-action rod, with 20- or 30-pound test monofilament line is not unusual in freshwater, and much heavier equipment is used in saltwater trolling.

Not all fish will respond to a trolled lure. Favorite freshwater species include coho salmon, walleye, northern pike, lake trout, and occasionally black bass.

Buccaneer Crew Notes

Sherry Price

Exceptional weather has been bringing many Northerners to the Gulf Coast, and Buccaneer State Park has been an attraction for many recreational vehicles. Campers from Minnesota, Colorado, Missouri, Ohio, Kentucky, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, and Oklahoma, to name a few of the states represented, spent their leisure time at the Park last weekend. If the fair weather keeps us, Buccaneer should be crowded during the Thanksgiving holiday. Programs will be scheduled to include all age groups.

The Camp Fire Squares, a square dancer club from Slidell, La., will hold a camp out at Buccaneer during the holiday.

John Litzberger, caller for the club, will begin a dance on Saturday night, Nov. 23, at 8 p.m. in the Park Recreation Hall. Those in the community who wish to participate in the square dancing are invited to come to Buccaneer and "swing your partner."

WEEKEND WINNERS
The following campers were winners in the Saturday evening grocery games held in the Park Recreation Hall: Dot Maynard, Waveland; Ruby Perilloux, Madisonville, La.; Myrthee North, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. North, Bay St. Louis; Henry Orgeron, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Orgeron, La Rose, La.; Eric Davison, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Davison, Waveland; Mrs. Lois Elam, Chalmette, La.; and Cathy Ferrier, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ferrier, Chalmette.

Congratulations to the winners.

Further hearings set on school junk food

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is going to the public early next year with a series of hearings on the question of banning the sale of candy and other competitive foods in schools participating in the national school lunch and breakfast programs.

Based on comments given in next year's hearings, the department will issue new proposed regulations which will become final in time for the 1979-80 school year.

The Secretary of Agriculture has been directed by Congress to regulate the sale in schools of competitive foods of little nutritional value.

Last April, the department proposed banning the sale of candy, soda water, frozen desserts and chewing gum in schools until the end of the lunch period.

These are called "competitive" foods because they are sold in competition with the school lunch and breakfast programs.

LADIES EXERCISE CLASS

Each Monday and Thursday evenings in the Park Recreation Hall, Ladies Exercise Class is held. The class begins at 7 p.m. and runs about an hour and 15 minutes in length.

There is no age limit and the participants are asked to wear non-constricting clothes and tennis shoes.

A floor mat or towel should be brought for floor exercises. Exercises are conducted for 45 minutes followed by a mile walk or run, whichever you prefer.

Response to the class has been good; the class will continue throughout the winter months.

MOVIES

Each Friday night in the Recreation Hall movies are offered free of charge to campers and residents of the Bay - St. Louis-Waveland Community. The movies are varied and appeal to all age levels. Show time is 8:30 p.m.

RENTALS

Buccaneer State Park has bicycles, girls and boys models for rent at $1 per hour. The bicycles are located at the Ranger Station and available on a first-come-first-served basis.

Three pavilions are available for rent at $15 each. The pavilions can be rented from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Reservations may be made through the Park Ranger Station.

Entertaining Ideas

by Laura Wells

It goes without saying that you'll want to put your best foot forward for Thanksgiving. A beautifully set and decorated table will help create the perfect holiday atmosphere.

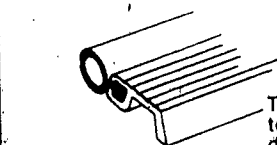

A popular trend in table-top creativity is the natural look. Bring that look to your table with straw or woven or slatted wood placemats in browns or beiges. These add color and texture to the setting and are easily cared for. Vinyl-topped mats and those of uncoated natural fibers can be wiped clean with a damp cloth. Select napkin rings in wood, straw or with seashell decorations. Try mixing different natural-style mats and rings for even greater eye appeal. For an autumn centerpiece, place an Indian corn, pine cones, gourds and dried wildflowers in a wicker basket or on a wooden cheese board. Also try using your house plants. A heart-leaved philodendron or any ivy that trails attractively can be set in a ceramic or wooden bowl. Add tiny artificial flowers and use two candlesticks to highlight the bowl.

Now is the time to add new touches to your traditional Thanksgiving menu. My suggestion is turkey sweetened with Sabra imported liqueur. Season turkey inside and out with 1/4 cup Sabra and salt pepper and paprika. Heat 1/4 cup butter to the foam. Cook one finely minced onion and one cup finely minced celery, stirring until wilted. Remove from heat. Stir into one 8-oz. package prepared stuffing mix along with 1/2 cup raisins, 1/2 cup chopped mandarin orange sections, 1/4 cup Sabra, 1/4 cup hot water and one beaten egg.

Spoon loosely into cavity, truss and secure with butcher's twine. Place on a rack, uncovered, in a preheated 450° F. oven. Reduce heat to 350° F. and cook 25 minutes per pound. Add remaining 1/4 cup Sabra to pan juices and baste every 15 minutes during final hour of cooking. You'll make about 10 servings.

Tempt the palate before your meal or add the finishing touch afterwards with a "Vanderbilt Black Russian." In a large Old-Fashioned glass, filled with ice, pour 1/2 oz. Vodka, 1/2 oz. Brandy and 1 1/2 oz. Nikolai Vodka. Stir well for a better "Black Russian." One final tip - let your imagination be your guide and don't be afraid to experiment!

By S. Grady Thigpen

Today's short trips were once gala affairs

In a letter written July 11, 1889-89 years ago - and post marked McClure, Hancock County, Mississippi, a school teacher living there wrote one of her former pupils a vivid description of a picnic and swimming party on July 4, 1889.

Here is the letter:

"We had one gay time on the 4th. I wish you had seen us, that is if you've an appreciation of the grotesque and I'm sure you have. We were determined to have a picnic. Our picnic grounds are on Hobolochitto Creek about two miles from the camp where we live.

This is a pretty place on a large creek but the funny part of the programme was the getting there. There was one family from Derby, Mr. Fine McClure's family and our own, a party in all of eighteen.

The coach and six, how shall I describe it? Fancy a long log wagon, if you can - it defies my descriptive powers - springless, seatless.

The latter, boards - planks - were laid across the wagon bed, blankets folded upon them-through the magic of imagination they became satin cushions - and we clambered up into the capricious vehicle.

Our steeds were the finest breeds of the country, and their gait was the embodiment of majestic deliberation; of course, according to the style of the locality.

They wore yokes but imagination shut its eyes upon them and the horns and other plain facts which indisputably declared the family of the brutes.

Finally the driver gave the advance crack of the whip and our chargers began to consider whether they should move. After much deliberation they considered it advisable and, with song and hilarity, we were carried on our way.

We did get there, though we had to get out and walk a log over a branch as the ford is dangerous and we were not very secure in our carriage.

After reaching the destined spot and merrily celebrating the day for a while, one of Mr. Fine's boys - grown - put on a Mother Hubbard and sun-bonnet and, mounting a stump, delivered a woman's rights speech that was killing.

We began to spread the dinner. On the instant it began to rain, gently but persistently, and it scarcely ceased from that time except for short intervals.

We took a vote and decided not to leave until the performance ended, per programme. We then struck out for the creek. We found a lovely place. The gentlemen left us, and donning Mother Hubbards, we plunged into the water.

It was such great sport. Then the scramble in our sylvan dressing room into garments was exciting as the gentlemen sounded the bugle for home. The rain had increased by this time.

Of course I was provided, as usual, with my gossamer (parasol) and rubbers but it was utterly ludicrous to see the others confiscate the carriage cushions, otherwise blankets, and wrap themselves in them, Indian fashion. It is a pity a photographer was not on the ground to 'take' the group.

Decidedly it was as merry a party as it was unconventional, and uncommonly original in plans and execution."

By way of explanation, there was a depot, post office, sawmill, store and a number of houses at McClure in 1889. McClure was located about half way between Millard and McNeill. The old switch put in for the sawmill is still there.

The sawmill stood at this point on what is now Highway 11.

To further show the inconvenience and the difficulties of travel back in the old days here is a description of a personal experience of my own:

Back in 1915 - I was teaching school at Poplarville. Our basketball teams accepted an invitation for both the boys and girls teams to play the Henleyfield teams one Saturday in the fall of that year. The distance was about 22 miles, either through the country, or on the railroad to McNeill and by wagon from there to Henleyfield. It was too far and the roads too bad to make the trip from Poplarville and back in one day by wagon, but by going to McNeill on the train and then getting a wagon to carry us from there the ten miles to Henleyfield, we could make the round trip in one day.

Seven girls, six boys and three teachers, including myself, met at the Poplarville depot at 5 a.m. to catch No. Nine train to McNeill. Matt Barker, by prearrangement, met us at the depot at McNeill with his wagon pulled by a fine pair of mules. We all promptly loaded into the wagon for the ten mile, four hour trip to Henleyfield school, which was then located near where Old Henleyfield church now stands.

There were no seats in the wagon and no springs under the body. We sat on the floor of the wagon body on blankets Mr. Barker had brought along.

When we would come to a steep hill all the boys and myself would get out and walk up the hill to make it easier for the mules. On two steep hills Mr. Barker asked the boys to push the wagon to help the tea.

We were met at Henleyfield by a most hospitable group of people. Mr. J. N. Stewart, who passed a way sometime back at his home south of Cybur, was the principal of the school and the basketball coach.

Because of the time consuming trips in the wagon going and coming from McNeill, the boys game was started soon after we arrived so that it could be played before noon. At noon we were served a sumptuous feast such as only old time women out in the country knew how to prepare.

Soon after the meal was over the girls game was started in order to have time to make the four hour trip back to McNeill in time to catch No. Eight train which arrived there about 6 p.m.

I like to contrast a trip like this one over 60 years ago with a trip to the same place and return today. Back then, such a trip was accepted as a matter of course, nothing unusual about it except that people rarely went that far from home except on a train.

In 1915, such a trip took approximately 14 hours from departure time to return but today the trip could be made in much greater comfort, the games played and all returned home in about one fourth of that time.

About the most interesting feature to me of the entire trip was getting to know Mr. Barker, driver and owner of the wagon and team. In after years he became a great friend of mine. He was wise in the ways of his time. He kept the group entertained with his original, pointed and amusing observations.

He was always in complete control of his team and himself. He was calm and unhurried. He always answered the many questions of the town boys and girls, some of them reasonable - and pertinent, others silly, with deferential politeness and solemn deliberation, though there was often a glint of amusement in his eyes.

He was a real old time gentleman. He seemed to thoroughly enjoy the trip and insisted that we come back sometime and let him take us on another trip.

It has always been most interesting to me to meet and know old people. They are fully matured, their pattern of life completed. An old person is somewhat like a completed picture ready for framing, a young one incomplete, with the finishing touches not yet on the canvas, still on the easel and being worked on.

Health official cites trash bin dangers

According to Paul Rankin of the Mississippi State Board of Health, since 1971 at least 10 children have died from broken necks or crushed skulls and chests as a result of playing on unstable garbage dumpsters.

In June 1977, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) placed a ban on the manufacture, sale, rental or other distribution in commerce of unstable refuse bins having a volume of at least one cubic yard. However, a recent nationwide survey by CPSC revealed that an estimated 40 percent of this country's one-half million refuse bins covered by this ban are still in use.

The Commission warns parents that these garbage bins are extremely dangerous so it is important that children be kept away from them. Unfilled, the refuse bins weigh from 200-400 pounds. When loaded, they are even heavier and may become more unbalanced.

Since the Commission's ban became effective on June 13, 1978, three children have been killed by unsafe receptacles. One death was of a 5-yr. old girl in Commerce, Ga. who was pronounced dead-on-arrival at the hospital after a garbage dumpster that she was playing on fell and crushed her. A 7-yr.-old in Kearny, North Carolina who was swinging from an unstable bin was killed after it toppled over and pinned her to the ground. On July 3, in Columbus, Ohio, an 8-yr. boy died from being crushed beneath an unsafe bin that crumpled.

Since CPSC investigations of 26 people, most of them children, have identified internal injuries, broken bones, butts and bruises from unstable garbage bins.

unstable bins to eliminate safety problems before more children are killed or injured. Wobbly trash bins can be converted to a stable state for about $25-$75 apiece, depending on their size.

To reduce the suspected high degree of noncompliance, CPSC investigators are now spot-checking the nation's alleys and lots with equipment to test refuse bins for violations. Because of the large number of suspect bins and limited CPSC staff resources, CPSC will be soliciting the aid of state inspectors to help test bins. Collectors and manufacturers who violate the ban could be fined up to $2,000 per unsafe bin in civil penalties. For willful noncompliance after notice, the Commission may seek criminal penalties up to $50,000 or one year in jail or both.

Many state and local government inspectors participated in the nationwide survey. They reported the locations of over 4,300 refuse bins covered by the federal safety rule. CPSC's review of these reports revealed that 40 percent of the bins appear to fail the federal stability tests. Initial CPSC inspections of a small segment of suspected violators turned up over 5,700 illegal unstable refuse bins.

The number of violative bins found may increase as additional reports come in from the 40 states helping CPSC in locating noncomplying garbage bins. Recent CPSC inspections of manufacturers show that most are making new refuse bins that are stable. The problem lies with trash collection firms who continue to use the unstable bins.

For further information, call Paul Rankin at 354-6616.

Mrs. Nunez Pilet said how she is using the DAR Manual to help Vietnamese prepare for citizenship.

GRANT OPPOSES GRANT

There was no play on words intended recently when American Farm Bureau Federation president Allan Grant opposed two other grants—but instead his actions reflect the use of checks and balances designed to make the American democracy work.

The American Farm Bureau Federation has slapped the U.S. Department of Labor's hands for doling out two federal grants totaling $805,000 to a West Coast labor union affiliate for questionable purposes.

Pleading the "right of taxpayers to know where their money goes," the national farm organization has gone to court to require the federal department to reveal the full contents of two federal grants awarded last July to an affiliate of the United Farm Workers (UFW).

UFW is a controversial labor union operating on the West Coast which during the past decade has organized, boycotted attempts at food stores over the nation which handle table grapes, lettuce and other California produced farm commodities which are not harvested or shipped under Cesar Chavez's UFW union contract. Both farmers and farm workers have fought control of California fields by the labor group.

Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has challenged the nature of the huge federal grants which were made under the Department of Labor's Comprehensive Employment and Training program (CETA). Funds were granted to assist in such union-related functions as building a micro-wave relay system, maintaining UFW headquarters grounds and buildings, repairing UFW cars and trucks, and working on UFW publications.

Grant called on the Department of Labor to reveal full contents of documents authorizing the grants, and commented, "These are public documents dealing with public monies, and yet when our attorneys sought to examine them, the Department of Labor provided partial photo-copies that were, in part, illegible and omitted whole sections dealing with alleged goals of UFW apprenticeship training. "One can only ask what the Department of Labor chooses to hide from the people?"

"President Carter has promised us an open administration, yet we must go to the court in hopes of getting routine information that is already a proper part of the public record."

The suit to require disclosure of all pertinent documents to the grant was filed under the Freedom of Information Act in U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C. Named as defendants are Labor Secretary Ray Marshall and William J. Kavinsky, disclosure officer of the department's Office of National Programs.

The near million dollar grant wasn't all the union got, the federation reported, since another $949,000 was allocated to UFW from the Community Services Administration. The two grants, totaling $1,750,000, to the labor union isn't a lot of money as far as federal grants are concerned, but they do make United States history. The expenditures mark the first time federal funds have ever gone to a labor union for organizational purposes.

The issue coming to a head as a result of the farm organization challenge is whether American taxpayers will swallow the tabs for labor union organization. Representing taxpayer interests before Congress is the Ashbrook amendment designed to bar Community Services Administration funds from giving to labor unions for organizational purposes. The amendment is part of the new $11 billion Community Services Administration funding bill sent to the White House.

Much of the rub comes because the federal agency staff reportedly looks with favor on such grants and considers these but the beginning, and CSA is structured as an "independent agency."

Yet, such funding of tax monies is highly questionable. Taxation itself is a way of taking property for public use, and according to the courts, such action and use of the funds is proper only as long as it may be proved that the public welfare demands them.

Magnolia memorial program underway

"Mississippians now have an opportunity to participate in establishing 'living memorials' for loved ones who have passed on by taking part in a program to plant magnolia trees along 29 major highway entrances into Mississippi," says Jim Buck Ross, Chairman of Keep Mississippi Beautiful.

"These 'living memorials' are a part of the Avenue of Magnolias program which is now underway in Mississippi. The magnolia is our State tree and flower, and for years Mississippi has been known as the Magnolia State," added Chairman Ross.

The project calls for planting 1200 magnolia trees 100 feet apart on both sides of the highway entrances. The planting and maintenance of the trees is being carried out by the Mississippi Highway Department, the Mississippi Forestry Commission, the Garden Clubs of Mississippi, Inc., the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, and the U.S. Forest Service.

"All funding of the program has been through private contributions," Chairman Ross emphasized. Anyone desiring to contribute to the establishment of a living memorial should send their donation to Keep Mississippi Beautiful, P.O. Box 1809, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

"A person or family might like to be responsible for an entire entrance planting, costing approximately $2,500, or a partial planting for whatever amount they feel they can contribute," stated Chairman Ross. "Presently 20 entrance plantings have been made, leaving 9 more original plantings."

"A permanent record of each memorial will be kept in a register to be placed with the Mississippi Department of Archives and History in Jackson. When these beautiful trees become another landmark of our great State, our people will be able to view the record of gifts and memorials," Chairman Ross concluded.

County Agent's Notes

SOYBEANS NEED LIME

About two out of three soybean acres in the non-Delta area of the state may need lime for top yields. Research has shown that liming will increase soybean yields 7 to 10 bushels per acre when soils with a pH of less than 5.6 are adequately limed.

The best time to apply lime is when fields are firm and dry. Putting off application until spring usually means no lime at all because of the spring rush, wet fields and other problems. It is best to plow in the lime so it will have more time to correct the pH before planting the next crop.

MORE POTASH NEEDED
You still have time to apply potash on your soils that need it. Recent soil tests results show that more potash is needed on Mississippi cropland for the best yields. In fact, the test show that about four out of every 10 acres in the state need more potash than farmers are applying.

If your soils are deficient in potash, apply it now and avoid the spring rush. However, remember that potash should not be applied to soils subject to overflow or severe erosion.

LAND FORMING PAYS
Land forming pothole bottomland will pay for itself many times over. Land forming will allow earlier planting and more precise application of chemicals and use of cultivation equipment. Another advantage of land forming is better water management without erosion. Land forming is a must for farmers who plant to irrigate next year.

If you're considering land forming, you should consult a professional engineer before you start. You should also contact your Soil Conservation Service district conservationist or your County Extension Agent.

FESCUE AND LEGUMES
Cattlemen who have recently seeded clover with fescue should not graze these crops before spring. Grazing earlier will damage the stand. You may not need to apply nitrogen fertilizer because legumes that are well-inoculated should provide enough nitrogen in the spring. Research has shown that established stands of fescue with 40 percent or more clover will not need nitrogen. However, these crops do need lime and more phosphorus and potassium than grasses seeded alone.

GRAZING CROPS

Many of the state's cattlemen are having a tough time getting good stands of ryegrass winter grazing crops because of the dry fall weather. This makes it especially important for you to use good management to get the most grazing from your crops.

It's recommended that you graze ryegrass when it gets about eight inches tall. Graze it down to about two inches, then move the cattle to another pasture or feedlot. Don't graze ryegrass below two inches; this will cause slow regrowth and less grazing.

PLANT SMALL GRAINS

Wheat and oats for grain should be planted in October and early November for best yields. You can plant the crop with a grain drill or disk in it, but drill planting will give a better stand. The seeding rate is 80 pounds per acre.

For best yields, you need to fertilize according to a soil test. Soils low in phosphorus and potassium will need 40 to 50 pounds of each of these nutrients per acre. Grains following soybeans probably won't need nitrogen at planting, but they should be topdressed with nitrogen later.

You also need to keep wild garlic and onions out of your grains. Garlic in wheat will lower its market value considerably. One of the best ways to overcome this problem is to select fields free of these weed pest for planting grain. Also, plant only high quality, weed-free seed.

MISSISSIPPI MARKET NEWS

FEEDSTUFFS MARKET

MIXED

Feedstuffs markets moved in a mixed price trend across the nation during the week ended November 7. Feed demand continued at a fairly steady pace in spite of declining turkey feeding.

Feed lots continue full of cattle on dry feed. Dairy and swine feeds moved well. More local feed grains are available in most areas but pasture conditions worsened over most of the country.

Soybean meal was readily available and traded generally lower. Decatur 44 percent protein eased $3.00 lower at $184.50 with 48 percent protein down $5 at $198.50 per ton. Memphis solvent cottonseed meal fell $2.50 at $172.50 but the Lubbock Market held at $180 per ton. Tightness of meat meal caused some spot market strength in spite of slowed usage. Prices in the Midwest moved lower with the Chicago Market down $9.50 at $237.50. The Portland Market rose $5 at $227.50 per ton.

Alfalfa sales slowed after recent price advances, but nearby needs were well covered. Alfalfa center dehydrated alfalfa pellets held at $85 per ton. Most ground meal markets advanced in response to higher production and processing cost. Suncured alfalfa pellets were mostly unchanged in slow trade but with spots higher. The Kansas City Market rose $4 at $85.
